Come join the Brookline GreenSpace Alliance to launch a campaign for the "Protect Water and Nature Initiative," which will create a new state fund for parks and conservation. The initiative has been made possible by the combined efforts of over 60 partners who have conducted research, composed legislation, secured endorsements, raised funds and gathered signatures to put this measure on the November 3 ballot. The Brookline GreenSpace Alliance has been serving on the steering committee of the campaign for over a year. The initiative would raise roughly $100 million per year by taking the money raised by the existing sales tax collected on the sale of sporting goods and reinvesting those funds in parks and land conservation. No new taxes will be required. The money will be used to protect land that keeps our lakes and rivers clean, help family farms stay in business, and provide new parks in communities that don't have enough greenspace.
