

Food Forest Guided Tour and Conversation

Friday, July 24th | 11AM |
Uphams Corner Food
Forest, Dorchester

The Brookline Pollinator Pathway is collaborating with the Indigenous Peoples Celebration Committee and other Brookline groups and residents to explore the possibility of a Brookline food forest - an eco-friendly community garden park, maintained by community volunteers, that grows food and herbs for anyone to take. As part of our exploration, there will be a guided tour of the Uphams Corner Food Forest in Dorchester, led by staff of the Boston Food Forest Coalition.

Limited space available - if you'd like to join the tour, email ODEICR@brooklinema.gov.
